Zealotry, according to his own admission, strangled his young wife. He killed her, it was proved, destroyed, the mother would be shocked.

The question now is, "What idea will occur to the judge and jury trying this interesting case."

The Senate approves, 46 to 35 an amendment to the tariff bill providing "Americans with factories abroad to send foreign-made articles into this country under an American trade-mark."

The idea is said to be aimed at Henry Ford's tractor factory in Ireland, according to Senator Reed, "a movement to prevent transfer of American-owned factories abroad to work at lower labor costs."

Henry Ford can easily manufacture his tractors in America, he said that until he needed his Dearborn tractor factory for the new car.

For the information of the tractor industry it may be mentioned that Henry Ford may soon produce a new kind of tractor made here in America.

Mr. Doran, federal commissioner of prohibition, is shocked by the "inconsistency" of industrial leaders, who call liquor as evil for employees but think the law should not interfere with their drinking.

Such "inconsistency" need amaze nobody. Prohibition is based upon it.

A great American steel manufacturer, recently deceased, told a friend "we had no trouble with this last steel strike."

Great industrialists want their men to drink water, they say, but they are not so sure about machinery and report for work early each Monday morning.

There is reason in all things. Our prisons are not made for our prisoners, but for the man that OWNS a machine.

BORAH TURLS 'CHALLENGE' TO HOOVER ON TARIFF

Says Mate Was Cruel

Senator Puts Three Questions to the President; Charges Stand Violates Pledge

Washington, Sept. 26 (INS)—The "break" between President Hoover and Senator William E. Borah, his leading supporter in the last campaign, was widened today when the Idaho Senator challenged the President from the floor of the Senate to state his views on the industrial schedules in the new tariff bill.

Taking direct issue with the President, Borah first condemned the flexible tariff provision as a "waste of time and money."

Then, while asserting the right of the President to speak in defense of the tariff, he demanded that Mr. Hoover similarly speak his views on tariff rates to the country.

"I ask from the floor of the Senate that the President advise the Senate and the country," said Borah, "as he did upon the flexible tariff provision, whether he approved the industrial schedule of this bill."

The senator asserted the flexible tariff provision had failed to perform the function which Congress intended when it was enacted seven years ago.

He said the tariff commission had failed to equalize economic differences between agriculture and industry and had failed to protect the farmer as his apostle claimed.

SHARKY IS ON FLORIDA COAST MAY ESCAPE HURRICANE

Large Bundles of Money for Tommy Appear in the Roaring Forties

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Tommy Loughran went to a $105 favorite over Jack Sharkey for their 15-round bout tonight at the Yankee Stadium. There also was a great deal of cash wagered at even money.

Another last-minute development was the naming of Jack Gagnon, New Bedford heavy, to meet Jimmy Maloney of South Boston in the semifinal. Dynamite Jim's scheduled opponent, Armand Bonnet of Dynamite, showed up with a sore arm, which made his appearance impossible, and after a conference between Gagnon and Maloney, Gagnon was substituted.

That means that another chance will have to be made in the card as Gagnon was originally scheduled to meet Lou Barba in a six-round bout.

The fact that most of the experts are picking Loughran to win is probably proof in the Philadelphia going to the post a seven to five favorite.

Large bundles of Loughran money appeared in the Roaring Forties tonight.

Much of it came from the new electric which the Tommy Loughran and Jack Sharkey chance on account of the fact that he has been a consistent winner and has fought three times since Sharkey's last win.

Gale is Still Raging at Sea; Danger is Believed Abating in Storm Area

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Western Union announced at 9:30 o'clock today that communication with the Bahamas had been cut off, due to the hurricane.

Havana, Sept. 26 (AP)—Local weather conditions took a sudden change shortly before noon today and it was feared the tropical storm had swung around and was headed this way.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 26—Late today the southeast coast of Florida apparently had escaped the burrigo that yesterday lashed its way across the Bahamas.

Indications were that the storm had swerved in its course toward the Florida coast and swept back to sea.

This noon the Washington weather bureau issued a statement saying the storm had remained almost stationary off Nassau, in the Bahamas, during the forenoon hours.

The first message from Nassau since the storm broke over the island yesterday was received today. The message said that the gale was being repaired and would be re-established by night.

Two Arrests Loom in New York; Mulhern Again Demands Wilson Be Ousted

Out of the sordid welter of white slavery, drug peddling and kindred "rackets," developments came with startling rapidity today in the investigation of the slaying in Boston of Samuel Reinstein, New York gangster.

Chief among them was the decision of Harry Malaga of Easton, Pa., alleged driver of the car in which Reinstein was "put on the spot," to chance his attitude and talk freely with the authorities.

At the same time, "Queen Pauline" sought for some time by Department of Justice agents working on the white slave angle of the case, walked into the office of Asst. U. S. Atty. John W. Richmond and surrendered.

Coincident with these events, Senator Joseph J. Mulhern of Rochester, in a letter to Governor Franklin Roosevelt, urged that charges the police department is protesting vice dens, and the removal of Commissioner Richard A. Wilson.

Who surrendered to Dist. Atty. Foley yesterday and refused questioning when questioned by Doyle, today changed his mind and gave the authorities much valuable information.

PASTOR-EDITOR TRANSFERRED

Rev. Hugh P. Rhind, Catholic priest and former editor of The Pilot, will be transferred next week from his pastoral duties at Sacred Heart Church, East Cambridge, to St. John's Church, North Cambridge.

While no official announcement of the transfer has been made, the pastor's alter in law, Mrs. P. William Blum, of Brockton, confirmed the report of the change.

Rev. Fr. Rhind has been pastor of the Sacred Heart Church for the past 11 years. He has been a priest for 29 years, serving eight as editor of the diocesan publication.

He was first pastor of St. Francis Church, South Revere, before being appointed to that parish by Cardinal O'Connell in 1914. Among his best loved poems are "The Little Gold Star," "After Christmastide," and "An Irish Blessing."

His latest job, as a priest, was the occasion for a tribute by members of his parish and many outsiders.

Silence of Gould of Maine
About Renomination Adds to Their Concern

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—The silence of Senators Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts and John B. Bowdoin of Maine, whether they will seek renomination is complicating the Republican political situation in the new Senate.

The situation in Massachusetts of particular interest both because of the political situation and the new poll 100,000 votes in the last year, the party organization and the booming on the horizon of what is described as congressional reform—former Governor Walter S. Fuller and Enoch S. Draper, who polled 100,000 votes in the last year, are the Republican primary. The congressional is whether Senator Gillett offers for renomination.

Senator Gillett, who will be 67 years old next month, is keeping his own counsel as to his intentions. Although some say he has been quoted as having said that he would not seek renomination, the independent Congress desired to offer for the next Congress.

The Public Utilities Commission's special hearing on Mayor Nicholas's petition to halt proposed rate increases is adjourned today with the announcement that the commission will take "further advisement" the question of reconsidering its approval of the new rate schedule.

Since the new schedule goes into effect tomorrow, it is apparent that the increased rate today virtually abandoned hope of securing a reprieve from the rate increase pending further investigation.

HEARINGS NOV. 15.

The commission's refusal to take immediate steps to prevent the inauguration of the rate boost came in spite of an appeal by Asst. Corp. Counsel Samuel Silverman, who asked that the new schedule be held up in order to permit a legislative panel of "alleged plotters" made by the gas company at the time of the repeal of the sliding scale law.

At the hearing, Asst. Atty. of the commission announced that the commission will act on November 15 to determine whether to take any further action.

President Dana D. Barnum of the Boston Consolidated Gas Co. made a final statement in defense of himself and his corporation.

Police Are Seeking Daring Firebug Gang in Series of Blazes

USE AUTO TO LIGHT THEIR FLIGHT

Fires Set in Boston, Wakefield and Two Other Places; Loss Is Heavy

An organized band of firebugs, traveling by automobile, is believed to have been responsible for four early morning fires today in Boston, Wakefield, Gloucester and Lexington, which endangered the lives of many persons and destroyed property valued at thousands of dollars.

Local and state police said they believed all four fires were of incendiary origin.

Police are working on the theory that all the fires were set by a band of firebugs, similar to that which terrorized Chicago a few years ago. The list of 11 persons were saved when fire swept through a four-story brick tenement house in Commercial st., North End, early today, the barking of Julius, the dog, who lived in the room of her master, Tony Paterno, 14, and awakened him.

Tony aroused his parents and three sisters and other residents of the building. As huge clouds of smoke rolled through the building they escaped.

STUBBORN WAKEFIELD FIRE.

The fire, which started at the foot of the front staircase, worked its way to the top of the building before being placed under control. District Fire Chief John McDevitt said the property damage at 83 South Main st. was $10,000.

A general alarm fire in Wakefield, which called for Melrose, Stoneham and Reading, destroyed 10 cottages of the Porter, Milton Lee Company on the shores of Quannapowitt Lake early today. Wakefield police say they believe the fire was set, as the cottages had been vacant for a long time.

Tenants of the Boston Ice Company, nearby, were threatened. Speculators had secured insurance from serious injury from falling tiles in Church st. and North ave. Occupants of a dozen houses near the scene fled in terror as police and warned to vacate their homes.

Damage was estimated at $75,000. On the south side of the lake in the old Hawthorne house, where Marshal Lafayette is said to have eaten while visiting Gen. Washington. The old dwelling was destroyed by fire. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

STORM GLOUCESTER LOSS.

The entire business section of Gloucester was threatened early today when fire damaged the North Shore cafe in Main st. The fire started several hours after the restaurant had been closed.

Sparks landed on nearby business buildings. Chief Homer Marchant centered many hoses on the Olympia Theater and North Shore buildings, to prevent their destruction. The loss was placed at $10,000.

One of the oldest barns in the state, located on the George Graham farm, Woburn st., Lexington, was burned to the ground with 20 tons of hay. Chief of Police John Sullivan is conducting an investigation. Damage will total several thousands of dollars.

Jail Ex-Minister in Jap Bribe Plot

Tokyo, Sept. 26.—Mitsuchi Ogawa, minister of railways in the late Tanaka cabinet, was examined at the public prosecutor's office to connection with various charges of bribery, was indicted and jailed today.

The offenses were alleged to have taken place when numerous grants of private railway building permits were made and also when the government purchased private lines shortly before the downfall of the Tanaka ministry.

Doctors Saved His Eye

Dr. Miller made it many years ago and in the document he gave the bulk of his estate to Mrs. Miller, but, following the divorce, it is believed now that he destroyed the will.

It was thought he had made a second will and that Florence Beresford and her brother, George Miller of New York, would share the fortune.

Diligent search, however, in the doctor's home, safe deposit box and downtown office failed to reveal a will, and a check of the physician's property disclosed a bigger surprise when it was learned that his estate will not total more than $600.

Associates of Dr. Miller assert that his earnings for many years totaled more than $25,000 a year and that shrewd investments had swelled the savings of the noted physician to an appreciable figure.

During the last two years, according to intimates familiar with the doctor, the physician suffered severe financial reverses.

Just a year ago Mrs. Miller appeared in Superior Court and asked for temporary alimony pending a hearing of his divorce suit. This disclosure came as a big surprise to social circles.

At first it was thought the doctor and his charming wife would be reconciled, but efforts of friends in this particular failed, and in July Mrs. Miller obtained a divorce. She was given a $40,000 summer home in Thompson, Conn., and $400 in cash.

Following the divorce Mrs. Miller returned to her old home in Stoneham, Mass.

Florence Beresford and George Miller are children by a previous marriage. Mrs. Beresford's marriage to the brother of Lord Decies was a notable event for society of this city. This match, smiled upon by society, ended in the divorce court a few years ago. Beresford is now living in London and his former wife in New York.

Dr. Miller was 72 and, and for 30 years had been regarded as the dean of homeopaths in this state. When search was being made for his will a packet of worthless securities and worthless European bonds were found in his desk.

AFTER WIDOW'S TURE UP LOST FORTUNE

Dr. Miller's 2d Will Leaves Money to Her Brother George of N. Y.

Providence, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Florence Beresford, widow of Lord Decies, brother of Lord Decies, will not inherit much money from the estate of her father, Dr. George Miller.

The dean of the homeopathic medical fraternity in Rhode Island died a few days ago and it was believed because the doctor's last will provided that he would leave a large fortune.

Dr. Miller made it many years ago and in the document he gave the bulk of his estate to Mrs. Miller, but, following the divorce, it is believed now that he destroyed the will.

It was thought he had made a second will and that Florence Beresford and her brother, George Miller of New York, would share the fortune.

Diligent search, however, in the doctor's home, safe deposit box and downtown office failed to reveal a will, and a check of the physician's property disclosed a bigger surprise when it was learned that his estate will not total more than $600.

Associates of Dr. Miller assert that his earnings for many years totaled more than $25,000 a year and that shrewd investments had swelled the savings of the noted physician to an appreciable figure.

During the last two years, according to intimates familiar with the doctor, the physician suffered severe financial reverses.

Just a year ago Mrs. Miller appeared in Superior Court and asked for temporary alimony pending a hearing of his divorce suit. This disclosure came as a big surprise to social circles.

At first it was thought the doctor and his charming wife would be reconciled, but efforts of friends in this particular failed, and in July Mrs. Miller obtained a divorce. She was given a $40,000 summer home in Thompson, Conn., and $400 in cash.

Following the divorce Mrs. Miller returned to her old home in Stoneham, Mass.

Florence Beresford and George Miller are children by a previous marriage. Mrs. Beresford's marriage to the brother of Lord Decies was a notable event for society of this city. This match, smiled upon by society, ended in the divorce court a few years ago. Beresford is now living in London and his former wife in New York.

Dr. Miller was 72 and, and for 30 years had been regarded as the dean of homeopaths in this state. When search was being made for his will a packet of worthless securities and worthless European bonds were found in his desk.

18 IN FLIGHT TO SEE FIGHT

With 15 persons holding reservations for the afternoon trip to New York today, Colonial Air Transport, Inc., was forced to press into service a six-passenger Patchin airplane to care for the overflow.

All but five of the 18 passengers bought airplane tickets with the intention of witnessing the Sherry-Loughran fight in New York tonight.

Eight members of the International Tietel Company, with offices in the Chamber of Commerce Building, went in a body on the motorized Ford.

The Airvia Transportation Company, operator of the airplane line to New York, was booked to capacity and like Colonial rejected further applications.

ALICE ROST HOLDS PEACOCK SANE IN MURDER

Dr. Gregory Says Wife Slayer Knew He Was Killing His Wife

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP).—Dr. Menas Gregory, Bellevue brain doctor, stands for the state today to give his opinion of the "emotional blow" that defense attorneys testified blew away Karl Peacock's will power so that he couldn't help killing his wife.

These defense doctors said Peacock had a "psychopathic personality" and when his wife slapped him he became for the moment "legally insane." They said he was unable to tell right from wrong and helpless to stay his hands from choking the woman he said he loved at the moment he killed her, and even later when he burned her body.

The defense had rested and Dr. Gregory was called in the state's rebuttal.

After qualifying as an expert, Dr. Gregory said he had heard the hour-long hypothetical question read to defense attorneys. On the basis of that, he said, he considered Peacock was of sound mind when he killed his wife.

He knew the nature and quality of his acts," the prosecutor asked.

"Yes," said Dr. Gregory.

HITS AT FINE BOARD MAN

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP).—Sen. Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, read before the Senate agriculture committee today what he said was testimony in the Sapine-Ford suit in which a witness accused Thomas C. Stone, vice-chairman of the Federal farm board, of selling his warehouse, purchased for $165,000 in 1918, to the Burley Tobacco Growers Association for $100,000.

The witness in the suit who Brookhart said was named Huggins, was president of the Senate for the year 1921.

Crane was convicted of second degree murder for shooting to death Miss Della Loria in a hotel room near where he found her in the company of John D. Oren, a brick salesman, who had supplanted him in the girl's affections.

Crane is also under indictment for the slaying of Oren, who attacked him with a knife after the baseball player had shot the girl.

The verdict was a victory for the defense.

Mrs. Gould, gay of heart despite an affliction, has smoked her 65-year-old pipe since she was a child. She hopes to round out the century mark. Mrs. Gould thinks that women of today who smoke only cigarettes are missing something.

Hoping to break her of the habit he induced her to try some of his strong tobacco, but to everyone's surprise she liked it and soon became an addict, according to Mrs. Gould.

SHERIFF BACKS CURLEY FOR MAYOR

Mansfield Upbraid Former Mayor, Recalling Own Words on "Office Hogs"

Another political leader climbed on the Curley bandwagon when Sheriff John A. Keilher of Middlesex County announced that he would support the former mayor in the three-cornered fight with Frederick W. Mansfield and Daniel H. Coakley.

I am supporting the Hon. James M. Curley and doing all in my power to bring about his election," Keilher said. "If there is anything more within the bounds of reason needed to make my position understood, I stand ready to furnish it."

The statement from the sheriff was expected. His election two years ago was decided, political leaders declare, the minute Curley placed his organization on the line for him, when Theodore A. Teddy Glyn was backing George E. Curley. The former mayor now has the three principals in that fight on his hand wagon, Keilher, Glyn and Curran.

Keilher is the first of the county officials to declare for the former mayor.

Former State Treasurer Mansfield, at the same time, launched another broadside at the mayor in which he declared that now that Curley has an opponent he every day should be showing and he is willing to keep up his courage. In his statement, Mansfield declared that Curley must ask, asking the question, does he want to be mayor forever?

"Among the things brought to my attention were newspaper stories stating in 1913, when I looked at though John F. Fitzgerald would seek a third term as mayor."

"Back in those distant days, the then candidate for mayor, Alderman James M. Curley, was badly demanding that the young men be given a chance, and accused John F. Fitzgerald of hogging the office."

"The young men of Boston, although Fitzgerald had had only six years in the office."

"Perhaps if my opponent, Curley, who has had eight years in the office of mayor, two years longer than any of Boston's 28 other mayors, and says that Boston needs him for four more years, he should look over his statements of those days."

"He might conclude that he ought to withdraw and give another man a chance to advance to the office of mayor, as I have done in being content with one term."

"Curley has been shadow-boxing in the mayoralty contest for the past year in endeavoring to frighten everybody out and telling the people of Boston that he was fearful lest he should have no opponent. Now he has an opponent, and his every action shows that he is willing to keep up his courage. But in vain. He must go. Does he want to be mayor forever?"

CLAIMS EDISON TEST EXPOSED U. S. CULTURE

Brunswick, Me., Sept. 25.—The famous "Edison test," with all its attendant publicity, was in reality an indictment of America's intellectual life," President Kenneth C. M. Sills told Bowdoin College undergraduates today.

The test indicated, according to President Sills, that "unless we have the best of the press agent's tom-tom, the click of the movie camera, and famous men as judges, we cannot arouse any great public interest in scholarship."

Columns of newspaper space are given to college football," said the Bowdoin president, "and only brief notices to intellectual happenings. This indicates again where the main interest of many Americans, including hundreds of college alumni, lies."

"The fault is not so much at the door of the public as at the door of the colleges themselves. The reason for the public attitude is the general assumption that learning is associated exclusively with the past. On the contrary, in a college of the liberal arts, there is no place for a mind that is not active in three tenses, present, past and future."

MAINE BANKER BOATS SAVE 54 TRYING TO GET $25,000 BAIL FROM FLOOD IN SOUTH

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 25 (AP)—Muddy waters of the Rio Grande today flooded about three buildings, all that remained of San Marcial, N. M., once a town of 1600.

In the foothills, across a broad expanse of flood waters which broke through dikes at San Marcial, were refugees, some of whom had left before the flood and 54 of whom were rescued by boats.

The 54 were marooned in the three remaining buildings—the Santa Fe depot, Harvey House and a bank. The buildings were standing in from five to eight feet of water. A phone line to the Harvey House ceased working.

The presumption was that all had been taken from the flooded area by a powerboat sent to their rescue. In the hills west of the new refugees. Most of them are without food or shelter.

URGED SHEARER 'SECRET' BE MADE PUBLIC

Washington, Sept. 26—Laurence R. Wilder, shipping executive, testified today before a senate committee that in 1928 he had urged ship corporations to "publicly acknowledge the secret employment of William R. Blount as a $25,000 observer and reporter" at the 1927 Geneva, naval limitations conference.

Earlier, Wilder had said the $25,000 fund expended by American shipbuilding during the congressional consideration of the Jones-White merchant marine legislation was not used for "lobbying."

He explained the Trans-Atlantic Corporation was seeking "broader legislation" in connection with its four-day transatlantic liner plan and much of the $145,000 was spent in "developing" the project.

Wilder said his corporation, the Brown Boveri Electric Co., obtained a contract to build the cruiser Salt Lake in April, 1927, while another cruiser contract was received in June, 1927. At the time the corporation was building the airplane carrier Saratoga, Blount was sent to Geneva in March, 1927.

In June, 1927, Wilder said, he resigned as president of the Brown-Boveri concern, but served in an advisory capacity to the board until this year.

He testified it was necessary to have commercial ship and naval vessel contracts in order to keep up his work yards as "there was a tremendous overhead."

More Supervisors of Census Named

N. E. ONLY PART OF U. S. TO GAIN IN FARMERS

Great Harrington, Sept. 26—That

Massachusetts and the rest of New England is the only section in the United States that has made a net gain in rural population in the last 10 years is revealed by a recent federal census. Governor Allen, principal speaker at the annual fair here, said today.

"Some people would have us believe that agriculture is declining

"The figures the bureau of census has published indicate also that young men from the West and South are coming here in increasing numbers to buy our farms and to near the best markets in the country and to enjoy the opporunities this favored section of-ers.

The Governor expressed confidence that the industrial and agricultural commission which was created as a result of his recommendation to the Legislature can in a great deal to assist in advancing the interests of agriculture in the future.

Book Reveals Wales Will Wed for Love

London, Sept. 26 (AP)—The breakfast tables of England revealed today in gossip about the Prince of Wales, a whole book of it. Hot off the press, it is a new, intimate biography, with all the old stories and many new ones.

The heir to the British throne doesn't marry, whether he will ascend the throne and why he is shy; all this and more is discussed in a new book written by two young English journalists and produced, it is stated, by a new American publisher in London. The reviews fill big space in all the morning newspapers. The publisher stipulated with the authors that the narrative should be both correct and in good taste, and before the book was published it was submitted to the royal secretary, Mr. Geoffrey Thomas, and thus bears the unofficial approval of the Prince of Wales. Much new material was supplied from the palace, it is stated.

On the topic for gossip on five continents and seven seas, the Prince of Wales marriage, the authors say the palace "regards the sanctity of marriage so seriously that he will not be thrust into a marriage of convenience," and he is not yet in love.

Sun-Tan Is The Fashion! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

False modesty is a relic of an ancient prejudice. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has cut it away and, in behalf of better health and pure enjoyment, sponsors the fashion of sensible swimming attire.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°; Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

District Club Head to Dine Presidents

Sixty club presidents of the sixth district, State Federation, will be guests of their district director, Mrs. William J. McDonald, at a get-together tea Monday afternoon at the Hotel Vendome.

All the clubs of Greater Boston, South Boston and the Woodbourne Women's Club are included in the sixth district organization. Mrs. McDonald is serving her second term as director.

Plans for the district's program during the ensuing year will be taken up. Last year was a busy one for the second district with its program of "Play Day" for the entertainment of the General Federation officers and Biennial Council officials. Mrs. McDonald arranged the tea.

That the second district might continue its policy of bigger and better activities for Greater Boston clubwomen, Mrs. McDonald has instructed this delightful tea gathering when club presidents might throw out problems of their organizations.

CHINA DISARMS 'IRONSIDERS'

Nanking, Sept. 26 (AP)—Nationalist government military headquarters today announced it had received advice that Gen. Chan Fak Wei's revolting "Ironsiders" had been disarmed after severe fighting along the northern Hunan border.

Dispatches from Canton say the government is continuing to concentrate troops along Kwangsi borders despite reports of Chang's defeat. However, no more has been made by Kwangsi against Canton.

Central Bank notes have been going up in Canton and are now 80 per cent of par. The banknotes are expected to return to par unless Kwangsi should begin hostilities. The mint has re-opened and the increased silver reserve is expected to help the financial situation.

QUAKES CAUSE HAWAII TERROR

Hilo, Hawaii, Sept. 26 (AP)—The severest earthquake within the memory of old residents here shook the western part of Hawaii, destroying buildings and walls. Dwellers, already frightened at the prospect of eruptions from nearby volcanoes, rushed into the open.

The seismograph at Kilauea station, on the western shore of the island, was ruined.

The disturbance came on the heels of an announcement by Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, volcanologist, that the 150 quakes western Hawaii has been experiencing the last two days presaged an eruption of the three large volcanoes in this vicinity.

May Be 3 Eruptions:

A New Issue of The New England Business Telephone Directory

—revised, enlarged and much improved—has just been distributed to business subscribers.

It embraces all New England, including Connecticut and other considerable sections which this company does not directly serve. Some 200,000 New England businesses are listed by name, address and telephone number.

These listings are arranged in six state sections—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut—the business telephones of each state being grouped under headings broadly descriptive of the type of business.

The purpose of this directory is to make it easier for New England people to do business with each other.

We had previously increased and extended our toll lines, and introduced the fast lower cost method of calling by number. In many instances, however, "Information" had to be asked to supply the numbers wanted. Now the New England Business Telephone Directory gives all these numbers. By the groupings according to states and headings, it gives an interesting cross-section of New England's varied industrial and commercial activities.

Representative business leaders tell us this directory is a real builder of business for New England. We like to think so; for only as New England industry and commerce thrive can a New England telephone company prosper.

FORD SALON BIG ATTRACTION

The Ford salon, which is being staged at Horticultural Hall under the auspices of the Ford Motor Company, is exhibiting for the first time in history all 12 models of Ford machines, some of which have been on the market only three months.

Town sedan, sport cabriolet and the de luxe delivery are the features of the exhibit, which closes next Saturday. In addition to the cars, there are half-dressed trucks, a coupe of chassis and a complete display of all parts, including shatter-proof glass, which shows the mark of a bullet that was not able to penetrate it.

It is a complete showing of the products of Ford factories and is as attractive as any of the big automobile shows in its appointments and decorations.

As the exhibit is free, no count was taken of the attendance, but it was estimated that 10,000 men and women visited the salon yesterday to inspect the new colors and models.

The town sedan in green or black is the family car. It has an adaptive front seat that is an entirely new feature in Ford cars. The upholstery is the same velvet used in the Lincoln car.

Everybody would recognize the 14 Ford touring car in the new model shown with its snappy green color and long, graceful lines.

Flag Winners in Visit to Napoleon's Shrine

By FLOYD E. WILLIAMSON

Excerpt of American Flag Champions, giving points the world as guests of the French Republic, Paris, Sept. 25.—The four champions of the United States Flag Association's flag contest were welcomed officially in France today by M. Francis Poincaré, minister of finance, who expressed great interest in the contest.

M. Poincaré guided the young stars on a tour of many of the points of interest in Paris, and also acted as interpreter at the reception and sight-seeing tour.

The rooms where two peace treaties were signed ten years ago were among the places of interest visited by the champions.

They first drove to St. Germain for luncheon in the hotel where France and Austria signed their document of peace.

After a visit at Maitlandson, near the home of the Empress Josephine, wife of Napoleon, the champions went to what they declared was fairland—Versailles.

Before going to the hall of mirrors, where Germany gave Alsace Lorraine back to France, they wandered through the expansive gardens of the palace, and were enchanted by the Swiss village flowers and wooded paths.

The illustrious history of Louis the Fourteenth, that caused the French revolution, was inspired by the boys and girls.

STUNTS AT HUB AIRPORT THRILL BIG CROWD

By GEORGE W. HAMBLIN
"Barging" in from Springfield, and announcing his arrival with a series of slow rolls, Billie Leonard, chief test pilot for the Alliance Aircraft Corp., brought his Argo airplane, powered with a Hiss Warner 125 horsepower engine, to a near landing while thousands of people stood in the background.

Without any more Leonard asked if anyone wanted to fly the trick little job, and Ralph T. Wickford, chief pilot for Curtiss, was the first of the boys to climb aboard. Wickford soared to a thousand feet and then barrel-rolled down almost to the water's edge. Every trick he knew was included in his exhibition, and the larger crowd of spectators got a big thrill.

Standing in the background, but offering inarticulate sounds was Lowell Bayles, another Curtiss pilot, and finally Leonard told him to go ahead. Grinning, Lowell leaped into the cockpit and with a mysterious wink, gave the pilot of the gun he wanted because the plane can be outside control with ease, and Leonard performed three of the loops at Springfield and week. However, Lowell refused, from the most dangerous stunt of them all, and contented himself with all the orthodox feats.

Airport Superintendent Albert "Eddie" Edson then took the ship, and repeated all the maneuvers of the other two boys. It began to look like a stunt contest at an air meet, before they all got through. Then Billie himself decided to really show the airplane off, not that the rest of the boys didn't do their stuff perfectly, but one man, flying the same ship all the time, can do a better job on precision aerobatics than anybody else.

When Leonard finally landed the crowd cheered, and the grinning Leonard said that Massachusetts Airways, at Springfield, had agreed to become Massachusetts and Connecticut dealers for the ship.

The operations manager of the New Bedford-Aquidneck Airport Corp., Dave Scher, reports that his outfit has purchased a Travel Air monoplane, powered with a Wright J-6 200 horsepower motor, and plans to start a daily service between New Bedford and New York.

The New York terminal will be the Newark Airport, and three hours from the time the passengers climb aboard the ship at New Bedford, they will be at their destination in Gotham. The service is expected to begin the middle of next week.

Scher states Col. Green paid the field a visit, and rode in the new field cabin plane. The colonel, who owns one of the finest estates in the world at South Dartmouth, promised Dave all the cooperation possible, and offered several very helpful suggestions.

The fare between the two cities will be $20, with a round-trip ticket selling at $30.

Scher bought the plane from Russell Boardman, Cape Cod dealer for the ship, and who is president of the Boardman Aircraft Corp. of Hyannis.

Fred Ames, president of the East Coast Aircraft Corp., told us a little story about the strength of the Travel Air cabin monoplane. He was at the Wright factory in Paterson, N. J., having the motor checked, and Ruddlecomb, a Wright employee, went up in the ship with Fred during the test hop.

They were 4000 feet aloft and "Biddle" stuck the nose of the ship straight down, with the motor throttled. The indicator is estimated to 160 miles an hour, and the last time Fred looked at it, it had gone around once and was registering 40 again. That means that they were racing straight down out of the sky at well over 200 miles an hour.

When they had dropped 2000 feet, "Biddle" sat back, and smiled at Fred, telling him to take the controls. After much anxiety and careful work, Fred got the ship straight and level again.

The Ocean pilot, Paul Herman, went to Nantucket and after dropping his passenger, returned to Boston in 50 minutes, aided by a tail wind.

The four Curtiss students entered in the student air meet, after performing spot landings, and various turns, were awarded prizes, by Bill Winston, without any one being called the winner. Bill declared that Bean, Kendall, Rickford and Walters were as good as he didn't want to make a choice.

By FRED TOYE
BOSTON DRESS BUYERS are treading their hair these days over the changing styles. Go into the vicinity of any big store, and you will hear him following over the telephone to New York or Paris. "Nothing less than 42 inches for fourteen, 43 for sixteen, and 44 for eighteen." What he means is that feminine skirts are going to sweep the streets. The stores are buying nothing else, and customers, in turn, are buying nothing else.

BUYERS are being driven even more "goofy" over the problem of women's coats. Style says skirts must trail the ground. If so, what about the coat? It's all right to show shapely calves below the coat line if calves happen to be in style. But the bottom of a dress below a coat never. Heaven, no! So, this is going to be a hard winter. column's fashion scout predicts that coats will be long or three-quarters length, or they will be made up for easiness effect. Hats will be worn high on the head showing a noble expanse of brow. Shapes are in once more. Fashion demands shapeliness or corsets.

At any event, girls, whatever you have in the wardrobe in store. Everything for the fall is different. Now, that much is settled.

ONE OF THE late Mr. Stiller, who years past had been a well-known Boston reporter and sport writer. Early in the winter of 1912, when Huggins was appointed manager of the Cardinals, he asked the reporter to accept the post of secretary of the St. Louis team.

It was a tempting offer. The newspaperman went to the meeting of the league in New York to confer with the manager and his club owners. While there, he learned that the previous secretary had not resigned nor been released, as he refused flatly to talk terms.

"By gosh, you're a white man," exclaimed Huggins. "There are few who would stand in the way of their getting their heads even over a man's body."

Miller was a trained athlete, and in the old days, as a player, he fought consistently for the rights of his teammates, and he refused to come to the front in a cause which he considered just.

DO YOU REMEMBER the old horse-car line that used to run down Marlborough st? One of the conductors of the line is still in the service of the Boston Elevated. He grew prominent yesterday in the service of the prominent Commonwealth.

When the old man got out of the car at Scollay ave, which was the end of the line, he looked up and saw a huge porter advertising The Black Cat. The hands went up in the air in honor, and he exclaimed: "My, my! If our Puritan fathers could see what we have come to!"

STREET CORNER has terminals are becoming better kissing galleries. With the growing use of long-distance motor travel, the terminals are becoming more and more like railway stations.

Especially at the times of late night departures of buses for New York and distant points, there are endless scenes of hectic animation.

Teary goodbyes, laughter, last-minute messages, handkerchief waving, protestations of eternal devotion fill the air. The entire spectacle affords a little entertainment to chance passers-by and to lonely commercial travelers at hotel portals.

Fisherman Drowns as Dory Overturns. Death by drowning of Edward B. Butler, 50, was reported by Captain D'Entremont of the schooner Flora L. Butler's dory capsized and a doryman, David immediately, Pearl Nickerson, doryman, clung to the overturned boat and was rescued by men from the schooner. Butler lived on Warren ave. He was a widower.

ATTENTION! FOR AID IN CURBING BOY SPEEDERS

POLICE CALL ON GLAZES AND PARENTS

Capt. Livingston Points to the Charleston Racing as a Menace to Life

Determined to curb the boy speeders who have operated since cars at break-neck speed through Charleston streets, Capt. William W. Livingston of Station 15 today issued an appeal to parents and citizens at large of the district to aid him in rounding up the miscreants.

The speeding epidemic which started several years ago had its climax in the theft of First Chief Dorey's car which raced through the Back Bay before being the Rucker Hill street loop for the education of hundreds of covering grow-ups lined along the racing course.

So daring have the thefts become that Captain Livingston ordered all police cars to be equipped with loud hailer and conducted several round-ups which resulted in jail sentence for some of the more notorious racing drivers.

APPEALS FOR AID

In his public appeal for aid, Captain Livingston stated that any information supplied him will be treated confidentially and urged all public-spirited citizens to help him stop the speed menace.

"This is a menace," he said, "which may not terminate until some instant person is killed. The affair last night almost ended in a killing, and it was an act of Providence one or more persons were not injured or killed."

"These escapades are looked upon as a disgrace by many people, but I am significant that the people of Charleston fall to get a laugh out of it. People outside the district come in and look over the racing route and exclaim: 'How in hell can automobiles race so fast?'"

"We have been able recently to curb these activities and I call on all law-abiding citizens to help stamp out racing and report to me any information which may lead to the identity of the speeders."

MAY SAVE LIVES

A few heavy penalties will tone them down and probably save the lives of pedestrians, particularly old people who are victims of getting out of the way."

"I am sure that the people who are arrested in various rounds conducted by Capt. Livingston are without previous criminal records have attracted the attention of several crime experts to the Charleston situation."

Dr. A. Warren Stearns, head of the State Department of Corrections, said the "thrill of the grandstand play" and the lack of proper parental supervision.

"Proper supervision by parents is the only solution to this problem," said Dr. Stearns. "This supervision cannot be supplied by police. It is a grandstand play staged by adolescent boys eager for the thrill of performing before a crowd."

"They are in the restless, turbulent age and this speeding, which no doubt draws an admiring gallery, has for them an attraction which even the fear of a heavy penalty would not dim."

Seythia, Day Late, to Land 465 Here

Two Boston Evening American truckmen averted what might have resulted in serious injury to pedestrians when they averted the bridle of a driverless horse outside the newspaper office in Devonshire st. today.

Before they could act, however, the horse, with a wagon attached, had collided with another horse and wagon, driven by Joseph Reynolds. The latter leaped from the wagon in time to escape injury, but his horse, but about the legs and its harness torn off.

The runaway horse had been standing in Winthrop st. when something frightened it. Its driver, P. D. McGuire, was busy in a nearby building.

James Hurst and John Blake, who were unloading a Boston Evening American print paper truck, saw the horse bolt and jumped into the street and seized its bridle just as it struck the Reynolds wagon.

Doherty, caught in a Revolution at Brookline, apartment, was held in $200 on a charge of breaking and entering in the daytime. He was committed to Dedham jail to serve an overline sentence for defaulting a previous fine for drunken driving.

Dillon, who held in $200, is alleged to have broken into an upholder shop on Washington st. Brookline. Police arrested him at his home after finding a letter, allegedly addressed to him, in the charge of burglary.

Dodges Bullet, Bites Bandit, Routs Trio

Louis Runstein Has a Busy Time During Holdup in East Boston Store

Side stepping a bullet, fired by a handist, Louis Runstein, 45, proprietor of a store at 202 East Eagle st., East Boston, seized a butcher's knife, bit the gunman on the finger, making him drop the weapon and then routed the intruder and two companions from the store.

Runstein told police that two men entered his establishment, leaving a man at the door. While he reached for a package of cigarettes on the order of one man, the other pulled a revolver and told him to "stick 'em up."

Instead of following this order, Runstein said he seized a butcher's knife, bit the man on the finger, and then the storekeeper stepped aside and the bullet ploughed into an inch.

Loosing all sense of fear in his anger, Runstein bit the gunman and brandished his knife so conclusively the pair in the store and the man outside took to their heels.

Mayor Puts Ban on Speed in Medford

A campaign to check speeders and reckless automobile drivers will be waged in Medford during the next few weeks, according to orders sent to Chief John F. Welch of the Medford police department by Mayor Edward H. Larkin.

The Medford chief executive in his letter to the Medford police bench stated that there were too many accidents occurring in that city.

Maybe It's a New Way to Collect Bill

Charged with raising a $9 check in $178, Bernard Correll, of Jackson, N. H., dealer in building supplies, was held in $500 for the grand jury in New York district court today.

The check was issued by Paul Mazzuchelli, of Brookline.

Correll told the court he changed the figures because Mazzuchelli owed him money.

MacKusick Excluded as Ministers Discuss the Disputed O'Neill Play

Albert F. MacKusick, principal organizer of the Boston churchmen's opposition to the play "Street Interlude," was refused admittance to the meeting of the Quincy Ministers' Association today.

It was informed that, with the exception of Mayor Thomas J. McGrath, none but members of the association would be admitted to the meeting, at which it was expected the Boston-banned play would be discussed.

Mayor McGrath said the names of the 25 Quincy citizens, of both sexes, who would act as his "play jury" would be made public. He did say, however, that his selections would be from Quincy's most prominent citizens.

Walter Pritchard Patton, dramatic critic, visited the Quincy mayor's office and went over the acting version of the play with the city's chief executive. He is said to have printed out that copy, circulated among Boston ministers by MacKusick, were taken from the reading version and by the acting version.

The ministers' meeting was presided over by the Rev. Hugh G. 12401 of Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

NICE HOUSEBREAKER STAYS FOR SUMMER, LEAVES WITHOUT FOOT

USES UP ALL LINE AND TOWELS

Slept in Every Room in House and Had All the Comforts of Home Except Meals

Free lodgings most of the summer was the only thing a house-breaker has to show for his visit to the residence of Mrs. Marie Marshall of Palmer at Westwood.

Tally sheets lying about the place showed that he whiled away his time by playing thousands of games of solitaire.

He enjoyed all the comforts of home except at meal hours. Where did he eat? That a puzzle. Water-town police used all the towels in sight taking baths—and ransacked the house thoroughly for clues to arrest. But, although there was jewelry and silver around, not one article was missing when Mrs. Marshall returned home.

Articles of clothing showed signs of having been tried on by the man. He shifted to every one of the four bedrooms, but seemed to have made his longest stay in the room occupied by Mrs. Marshall.

The bathroom showed that he revelled in many and long baths. He broke into the jewel cases and sideboard drawers and looted the valuables over carefully, but did not take anything.

He left and entered the house by the rear door and police believe that he moved in as a tenant. Mrs. Marshall went away for the summer, and made himself thoroughly at home.

BLAST VICTIMS LOSE DOUBLE COMPENSATION

Cigar Stub Cited as Cause of Big Lynn Tragedy; Double Award Rare

In the 17 years of its existence only four awards for double indemnity under the workmen's compensation act have been made by the State Industrial accident board, and of these only one has been upheld by the courts.

These facts came to light in connection with a decision of Chairman William W. Kennard of the board, in which he ruled against claims for double indemnity made by dependents of 13 killed or injured employees of the Double Box Co. of Lynn, resulting from an explosion and fire on Nov. 8, 1924.

LAW CITED
The law regarding double indemnity reads:
"If the employee is injured by reason of the serious and wilful misconduct of an insured person or of any person regularly associated with and exercising the powers of superintendence, the amount of compensation hereinafter provided shall be doubled."

All of the claimants, employees or dependents of the deceased, Kennard pointed out, have been or are being paid the ordinary weekly indemnity amount prescribed by law, the amounts varying according to the circumstances of the dependents.

And the only case on record where double indemnity was awarded and sustained by the court was several years ago in a case in which a superintendent ordered an employee to put his hand inside a machine to repair it over the employee's protests.

CIGAR BLAMED
In the Preble Box Co. case, Kennard finds that Puffer, a superintendent, threw a cigar which he had been smoking into a waste barrel, which caused the trouble.

"That smoking was in no way a part of his work or in any way incidental to any possible duty that he had, either as superintendent or as officer of the corporation, is equally certain," the decision read in part.

"That his conduct in itself in what he did constituted a piece of serious and wilful misconduct on his individual part with the definition of these words as interpreted in cases cited, I find to be so."

Examination of the law coupled with the facts of the case lead me to conclude that I am not warranted in finding that the subscriber should be charged with serious and wilful misconduct because of Mr. Puffer's act.

"I therefore rule that it has not been made to appear that the subscriber corporation was guilty of serious and wilful misconduct. The several claims for double compensation must therefore be denied."

Old Boston in Pictures—No. 66

Quite a few old Bostonians can remember scenes such as these on Boston Common. This is the old picture of the Boston Evening American, shows the 31st Regiment of Artillery encamped there for their two days' annual tour of duty. In the days of the encampment it was looked forward to as one of the entertainments of the year and crowds flocked to the Common to witness the spectacle. Other interesting scenes of old Boston will follow.

Comes From Hospital to Find Home Ablaze

On her arrival home in a taxi cab from the Massachusetts General Hospital, where she had been operated on the day previous, Mrs. Eva Patten of Fenwick St., Roxbury, found her apartment in front of the house and smoke coming from the cellar windows. In her weakened condition she became highly excited and nearly collapsed. She was taken to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Sarah Stone, where she was made comfortable.

After the smoke was cleared from her own home, Mrs. Patten was removed there by her third-floor apartment. The woman had been discharged from the hospital only a few minutes before the fire was discovered. The doctor attending her case told her that she could go home provided someone was with her constantly.

The fire, of which the cause was unknown, was in the basement, and the damage was slight.

LIQUOR CACHES FOUND AFTER 2-HOUR HUNT

Headquarters Squad Uncover Contraband Under Concrete Floor in Cellar

A short search of an East Boston cellar resulted today in the discovery of a cache of liquor hidden in a series of tanks.

The tanks resulted in the arrest of East Boston and a woman and the seizure of two places of liquor and in the trial of more than 30 persons.

A search of the tanks beneath the sidewalk revealed the cache of liquor in the cellar was unsuccessful. Perhaps one of the officers noticed a boom and a package together in one corner. With the boom the officers swept off the sidewalk that covered the floor, and with the pick they tipped over one of the tanks.

Thereafter, a search followed. At four different points, with the pick they dug out small sections of the concrete floor, and as soon as they had located the tanks, the officers began to dig.

Underneath the concrete the officers say they found four liquor caches, each one of them containing a barrel.

Further the same officers visited a Yarmouth St., South End place and seized the 500 liquor slips. These they seized from T. Howard and his wife, Mrs. Helen V. Howard, who said they lived at that address and Herbert W. Plummer, a clerk in the South End. All were booked with setting up and promoting a lottery.

DEDHAM GIRL WINS WINGS

Olivia "Katie" Mathews, 24, of Dedham, given a special for her personal solo endurance record, qualified for a private license by taking off and landing a biplane twice in 20 minutes.

The new woman flier plans to attend the flying school in the weeks, in which she hopes to exceed Elinor Smith's record of 20 minutes and 20 minutes continuous flight.

"Katie" who is the daughter of George W. Mathews, Boston attorney and law expert, was graduated from Miss Lee's School here two years ago.

Last January Miss Mathews started taking instructions under Lieut. John Langley at the Boston Airport and soloed the last week in February. At the time the field was covered with snow and it was necessary to use skis instead of landing gear.

Respirator Is Keeping Harvard Boy Alive

A specially prepared respirator, a new device invented by Dr. Philip Drinker of the Harvard school of public health, has been keeping Barrett Hoy, 22, a Harvard senior, alive since he was stricken with infantile paralysis a week ago last Friday. The respirator virtually breathes for the patient.

Hoy is manager of the hockey team and a prominent athlete. The disease so contracted the muscles of his back and chest that he could no longer breathe unaided.

Hoy, a graduate of Drexel and Nichols schools, is the son of Edward H. Hoy of Curran rd., Brighton, a Boston architect and member of the firm of Haves & Hoy.

In this, the longest time that artificial respiration has been used for the relief of a paralysis victim, Hoy is now able to leave the respirator for 20-minute intervals several times a day, and, although his condition is still dangerous, it is much better, in the opinion of Dr. Drinker and Dr. W. L. Arnold of the Harvard infantile paralysis commission, who is treating him, they said.

"They work while you sleep"

Cascara is Good for the System
What do you do when a sluggish system tells you the bowels need a little help?

The best thing yet discovered for the purpose is still the old candy Cascara! Take one whenever the liver and bowels are not functioning as they should.

Cascarets are pleasing to the palate, and pleasant in their action. You eat them just like candy. They work while you sleep. Gentle, but thorough. Cascarets don't stir-up the stomach or upset the system. But they cleanse the entire thirty feet of bowels in one comfortable, thorough action that leaves the system clean and sweet; leaves you with an untainted breath, uncoated tongue, and clear head. Cascarets are made of cascarol—long regarded one of the most beneficial laxatives known to medical science. They are sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real licorice. Children love them. So do most grown-ups! Why take anything harsh when constipation threatens? Whenever a dull headache, lassitude, or sick stomach with loss of appetite warns you of constipation, a Cascaret or two is the most harmless form of help you could give a lagging system. Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how fine you'll feel in the morning—and for days after.

PROGRAMS FOR TODAY, TONIGHT ON THE AIR

Many Features are Listed by Boston and Distant Stations

By BERT BROCKBANK
Radio Editor

THE first presentation of a football bowl to the nation by radio will take place tonight between 7:30 and 8:00 o'clock over WBZ and associated NBC stations. Jack Hawley, Dartmouth coach from 1923 until his resignation a few months ago, will introduce his successor, Jack Campbell, to radio fans and football enthusiasts. The Green and white team will be coached by Green and white football coaches. The party will occupy a portion of the United States broadcast hour with Vincent Lopez and his Klystrons.

Before passing from this program it might be of interest to refer to the novel story to be staged by Lopez and Phillips. Carlin. Nothing less than a conventional ball fight. Each will attempt to employ a prize-fight announcer's technique to the art of throw and shot him in the verbal struggle. Each man will be played while the head is being hog-tied.

TONIGHT'S the night that a Bostonian gives an Irishman something for nothing. Victor MacFarlane has invited Superintendent Michael H. Crowley to share studio time in the WBZ studio from 8:30 o'clock. Time in this instance means money. Sandy and the "Super" have been on the air for years. Frequently they meet at police headquarters. Tonight they will both invite the radio audience to send in questions for answer over the air. I've made up my mind that the "Super" has more brains than the "Buck". It will be tough if anyone can outguess the brilliant Samuel Feinstein. If Sandy doesn't go native and cut the time, he might sing "The Toodle". Walter "Hap" Myers will be inquisitor and censor.

Recently a Detroit creamery company reported that 900 cows on a model farm gave more milk when listening to radio music. Don Becker, staff announcer at WBZ, regards this as a practical result of the program sent over the air. The network of the International Broadcasting Co., as reported by the School for Broadcasters, C. W. Cowen, Don says that C. Chevrolet, who has been on the air for years, claims full credit in the statement, "The Pearly White Cows Fall in Love with the Milking Machine." It has worked.

"THRILLING, blood-curdling, hair-raising drama is promised in the True Detective Mysteries program this evening from WBZ. The bandits who broke in on the peaceful Los Angeles home of Mrs. Zachary, who was the victim of the previous game they were seeking and were determined to kill. Crowding their trembling quarry into a bedroom, the fiendish bandits then threatened the victim with horrible tortures if they failed to disclose the hidden wealth. Tune in and hear how the quick wits of a bright boy helped him escape due that led to the capture of the bold, bad bandits.

The walling, cat-sawing clatter and the dissonant shrieks that disturb rather than please is not jazz. The foundation of so-called jazz is found in negro music. This is expected to be proved in the Alvin Karpis murder program tonight through WBZ, when a special group of negro musicians, the "Blackbirds of 1928" will be presented. It was the big hit of the season and the most pure negro music of the highest type.

BERT DANIELS, who met the challenge of the "talkies" by bursting into song, will sing selections from "Rio Rita" during the Fleischmann Sunshine Hour from WBZ this evening. They are "The River Song" and "Faint Always in My Arms." John Held, Jr., caricaturist, and Vic Murray, photographer and sabre champion, will attempt to prove that "Accepted Standards of Beauty Are the Buckle" in a dialogue discussion. Contributors to this program include Wallace Latta, radio crooner; the Cavalier, Male Quartet; and Ben Foisie's Orchestra. Graham McKenna will announce.

The press agent for a broadcast company must be as versatile as well as verbose. For instance, we are told that "an excellent record of water colors that will depict the sunlight and sparkle of eyes, lakes, the romantic rush of swift rivers and the unfathomable mystery of the deep blue sea" will feature the Seiberling Brothers' program tonight from WBZ. Dan Latta, Glenn, Latta, and James McKenna, will add personal touches to the musical canvas.

Warns Parents to Obey School Law
Fall River, Sept. 25.—Superintendent Horace F. Bates of Swansea gave final warning to the parents of seven children of the town who have not attended school as required for more than a week. The parents were informed they are liable to prosecution.
The parents of the seven children have been at odds with the school authorities for two weeks on the question of providing transportation from Wood and Adams streets to the Frank A. Stevens school, Swansea Center.

NICK FLATLEY
Sharkey Will Win
Jack Licks Lips
In Perfect Trim

SHARKEY LICKS LIPS—NOT IN ANTICIPATION

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—The Squire of Newton is around today, ready to go. He's as nervous as a witch. He talks fight. And licks his lips as he does it. Jack isn't gloating in advance over his flattening of Tommy Loughran this evening. He merely has trained himself down to the fine point, and is dried out. The lips get hot and burning when an athlete is on edge. All the superfluous moisture is burned out of his system. His nerves are shaky, and he's fretful. Which means that he will have the ultimate in speed when the gun or the gong lets him loose.

Mister Sharkey should win this one. Most important of all, he wants to fight. The wild statements of Loughran, which his ghost writer made, have worked under the Sharkey skin.

Many of Jack's big fights didn't please him. He was bothered about arrangements, and a thousand and one things. He's moody and temperamental. He didn't believe in his heart, for instance, that he could lick his idol, Jack Dempsey. So he didn't.

He figured the Huggins and Risks fights were necessary to his championship claims, so he dogged it in both; tried to keep out in front too much chance-taking.

In the fight he has wanted, Sharkey has looked like a champion. He was great against Walk. He flattened Jim McInerney viciously. He would have carried the flaming urge into a row with Tunney.

He exerts it into this rumput. He wants the big shot in Miami. He dreams of the title. He knows that physically he is perfect. So his mental condition is 100 per cent. When that is true, Sharkey is a great heavyweight.

Impending Row Doesn't Bother Squire
Here is what Jack had to say this morning, as he prepared to take a freshening jaunt through Central Park:

"Say, I haven't thought half as much about this fight as you have. I'm hard on him, and want to win. But I'll get it that when I go in the ring, I know Loughran is good but I think I am now. I have a right hand. If it connects under Tommy's left elbow, he'll know that something hit him."

"I'm as dry as a fish, and I'll give myself a gallon of ice cream soda as soon as it's over. So I'll try to hurry it along."

There's confidence in that. If Jack tears in, as he did against Dempsey, he may make this one of the wars of the century. He's in shape now, which he wasn't for the Tiger. And he knows that Loughran can't hurt him. He can lose carelessly to the winds.

Betting is even this morning. Sharkey was an early favorite. Then the odds veered to Loughran. Now the specs admit that it's a toss-up and there's no money choice.

It may be sufficient to note that Sharkey has not won any of the big fights in which he was favorite, except the Stribling one, and that one figured, as the boys say, from the time the match was made.

Miller Earned Place Among B. B. Immortals
Little Miller Huggins has gone along. And baseball and sport have lost one of the finest characters that ever appeared about the trail. Now the writers and players will be saying things about "Hug" that few of them voiced while he was leading his great Yankee team to undying fame.

For Miller was one of those silent, thinking individuals, who let the fame and glory fall where they would. He plotted and planned for success, and achieved so much that there could be no doubt of his genius.

The tiny "Hug" had a team of stars, a flock of high-priced, temperamental heroes. It has always been a baseball axiom that nine stars make the worst baseball team. Huggins had them. He was the boss of unthinking, fiery young men with millionaire incomes.

He was belittled, more than praised, when his team was talked about. But he kept plugging along, and steered his stars into pennants and world titles. His job in New York was the toughest in baseball. He wrecked his fragile body, fussing and worrying.

But his heart was always great. The next manager of the Yankees, he who he may, will find that out, shortly.

Miller Was Great Judge of Men
Little Miller had much to put up with. Babe Ruth, for instance. That young man had plenty of troubles as a Yankee. He quarreled with his manager every now and then. But always Huggins was watching him, and helping. The Babe was admitting that constantly.

Huggins shut down on Ruth's appearances in charity and exhibition games, for the simple reason that he knew that too many of them were wrecking his slugging hero. He put up with a million fractures of discipline.

But if you look over the records, you will find that Ruth was always present when the big tests came, in great shape. That was the Huggins part of it.

Expensive Yankee stars had open wars with the club owners, but the holdouts were always signed as soon as Miller took them into a corner and passed out some of his rare, but valuable advice.

He was a game, quick-thinking little genius. Not much bigger than a Jack-kabard, he played a wonderful second base for the St. Louis Cardinals over a stretch of years in the days when baseball was tough.

Then he stepped into the managerial breach, and made history.

Baseball will miss little Miller Huggins for many a long year.
